

GRENACHE NOIR

SIERRA FOOTHILLS

Winemaker Notes

Andis Grenache Noir is made using grapes sourced from vineyards in the Sierra Foothills, which are located at higher elevations. The wine is perfectly balanced, boasting a nervy acidity that complements the delicious flavors of raspberry and cranberry. It has a pale ruby color and subtle hints of red cherries, currant, and licorice. Grenache is typically known for its low tannin profile; however, it still delivers a high-quality, medium-bodied red wine with a long, soft, velvety finish.
