The 2023 Little Lotus Flower Sauvignon Blanc is exclusively from a 1/4-acre slice of the Estate Davis Vineyard sitting on two very distinctive soil types that nearly perfectly divide the block. One of our steepest areas of vineyards is the northern section of this block, which is comprised of the Howard series, a very deep, very well drained soil series formed in medium textured glacial outwash deposits. The second series is made of Valois gravelly silt loam, which is another very deep and well-drained soil but is instead dominated by sandstone, siltstone, and shale sitting on a steep lateral glacial moraine that also incorporates a small amount of calcareous rock.
